

In Boston, when you were reading the paper, I literally did not trust my ears. (My hearing is very bad, and it was pretty bad then.) I had the feeling that you criticized me with arguments which I <sup>had</sup> all developed in the L. d. F.; but I was not sure for acoustic reasons. <sup>This is why I never said anything in reply.</sup> I only saw the printed version about a year ago (you did not send it to me; my attention was drawn to it by Francisco Ayala). I am of course sorry; but I don't blame you.

At the moment I am terribly pressed: I have a lecture in Cambridge (England) early next month, and I have still to write it.

I do hope you are all quite well. I do not know whether I told you that Hennie had a cancer operation and is still under treatment (chemo-therapy).

Love,

Karl

In Boston, when you were reading the paper, I literally did not trust my ears. (My hearing is very bad, and it was pretty bad then.) I had the feeling that you criticized me with arguments which I all developed in the L. A. F. I but I was not sure for scientific reasons. I only saw the printed version about a year ago (you did not send it to me; my attention was drawn to it by Francisco Ayala).
I am of course sorry; but I don't blame you.
At the moment I am temporarily moved; I have a lecture in Cambridge (England) early next month, and I have still to write it.
I do hope you are all quite well. I do not know whether I told you that Hanna has a cancer operation and is still under treatment (chemo-therapy).

Love,
Karl